

The Hawaii Department of Agriculture is adding temperature-sensing active RFID tags and ocean shipments from the mainland US to its ongoing food traceability pilot project. The initiative continues to track produce shipments within the state with passive RFID.

Complete Content Not Available in PDF Format See: <http://www.rfidjournal.com/article/view/7115>